"In 2018 CRF Health and Bracket became one company, now known as Signant Health, bringing together a unique set of complementary expertise, products and services. We will continue to support our partners with protocol design and optimization, eCOA data collection, data quality oversight, patient engagement and consent, and clinical supply management, however, the solutions formed by the combination of these products and services makes our work with CRO partners more expansive and less transactional than ever before. The time is right for us to make a significant investment in our partnerships. That is why we have reimagined our approach to partnership engagement and have established the Signant Health Partner Program. We recognize that by working more closely with our partners we can bring additive value to their existing infrastructure via Signant's solutions, and together we can more powerfully impact data quality and clinical trial execution. Our commitment to our partners is this: we will get to know what suits your business and your people best and we will tailor commercial and operational support to enable your success. When our partners succeed, we succeed."
